REQUISITION # 498736

Title: Assistant Professor – Economics of International Development

Location: Food and Resource Economics Department
University of Florida
Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences (IFAS)
Gainesville, Florida

Salary: Commensurate with Qualifications and Experience

Review Date: For full consideration, candidates should apply and submit additional materials by November 15, 2016. The position will be open until a viable applicant pool is determined.

Duties and Responsibilities
The Food and Resource Economics Department seeks to fill a 12-month tenure-accruing position for an Assistant Professor with research and teaching interests in the Economics of International Development.

This is a 12-month tenure-accruing position that will be 40% teaching (College of Agricultural and Life Sciences), 60% research (Florida Agricultural Experiment Station), available in the Food and Resource Economics Department, Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, at the University of Florida. This assignment may change in accordance with the needs of the unit. Duties will include teaching two or three undergraduate and/or graduate courses in the Economics of International Development and other topics in Food and Resource Economics as appropriate. Applicants should possess excellent applied microeconomic analysis, quantitative and communication skills, and the motivation to work in multidisciplinary teams. Tenure will accrue in the Food and Resource Economics Department. The faculty member will participate actively in undergraduate education and graduate education by chairing graduate committees, serving on graduate committees, supervising thesis and dissertation research, supervising undergraduate research, and publishing the results with his/her graduate students. The faculty member will seek contract and grant funding actively to support his/her graduate students. The faculty member will engage in Extension activities in his or her program area.

The successful candidate will engage in scholarly activities related to instruction, including teaching undergraduate and/or graduate courses, advising and mentoring undergraduate and graduate students, participating in curriculum revision and enhancement, seeking funding for the teaching program, supervising undergraduate and graduate research and creative work, publishing teaching-related scholarship, producing learning tools, and engaging in professional development activities related to teaching and advising. Faculty are encouraged to support and participate in the CALS Honors Program, distance education, and international education.

Because of the IFAS land-grant mission, all faculty are expected to be supportive of and engaged in all three mission areas—Research, Teaching and Extension—regardless of the assignment split specified in the position description.

Qualifications

Required:
A doctorate (foreign equivalent acceptable) in Agricultural Economics, Applied Economics or Economics discipline is required. Candidates should have demonstrated skills in verbal and written communication, interpersonal relationships, and procurement of extramural funding. Candidates must be supportive of the mission of the Land-Grant system. Candidates must also have a commitment to IFAS core values of excellence, diversity, global involvement, and accountability.

Preferred:
Postdoctoral experience is desirable but not required.

Background Information:
The Food and Resource Economics Department (FRED) has 26 faculty members and 8 support staff positions in Gainesville, and six faculty members and support staff across 6 research and education centers throughout the state. FRED faculty teach a wide variety of courses, from agribusiness marketing, natural resource/environmental economics, to welfare economics and trade theory. FRED averages ~300 undergraduate majors/year, and 75-85 M.S. PhD and Master of Agribusiness students. Research and Extension efforts reflect both the needs to the State and the mission of the Agricultural Economics profession.

The University of Florida (http://www.ufl.edu) is a Land-Grant, Sea-Grant, and Space-Grant institution, encompassing virtually all academic and professional disciplines, with an enrollment of more than 53,000 students.
